

ADRIENNE CORBOUD FUMAGALLI, PhD in Economics, Political and Social Sciences

Non-Executive Director roles that follow a career in high-tech industries; driven by an entrepreneurial spirit:

Alternating from public to private sectors;

Reaching market leadership with achievements in business development;

From telecom operator IPO to telecom market regulation aiming to enhance competition while promoting responsible use of big data.

After completing her doctoral thesis on the media, followed by research into the impact of media technologies, Adrienne Corboud Fumagalli spent more than 30 years working in telecommunications, multimedia and cybersecurity. From the development of multimedia and broadcasting products around Swisscom's IPO, to executive VP business development at Kudelski and VP Innovation at EPFL, Adrienne has participated in the transformation of high-tech industries. After chairing the Swiss telecoms regulator, drawing on her experience of industry consolidation through M&A activities, she now chairs the board of Unyversal technologies. She is a member of boards of directors and foundations, and sits on the Scientific Technical Committee of the Italian Institute of Technology (IIT).
